

STEWART AND SILVER.

In the March North American Review, Senator Stewart, under the title "Contraction, and the Remedy" in a few pages states fully the cause of the silver men. He illustrates the old facts that prices are regulated by the volume of money; shows that when the great debts were contracted nations and men entered into the obligations to pay with the full understanding that they might elect whether to pay in gold or silver; shows that the very same arguments now used to decry silver were effectively used in the fifties in Europe to decry gold; and that under that cry Holland and Belgium adopted the silver standard and Austria and Germany excluded gold from their mints. But the men who accomplished this were honest at least. They contended that the use of gold (so great had been the supply from Australia and California) was not fair to the creditor class. The interest they collected was losing its purchasing power in the United States, and the bondholders caused silver to be demonetized. We are all, says the Salt Lake Tribune, familiar with Mr. Stewart's views; it is enough to say that his conclusion is that the National Banks have already proved themselves to be failures, as the system makes no note of the increasing people and business; rather, since November 1st, 1883, there has been a decrease in National Bank circulation of $150,000,000. His remedy is to use the product of our mines as money in the form of certificates, leaving the bullion in the Treasury. With his natural aggressiveness, the Senator, after stating his case and the system which he believes would cure present wrongs, challenges the opponents of silver to prepare a better monetary system than the one he suggests. We look upon the Senator's arguments as unanswerable, and they seem so plain that we cannot understand why the debtor class, which comprises the great majority in this country, does not make such a demand for justice as shall be at once heard and obeyed. There has been no such steel recorded in history as the one which was accomplished by the demonetization of silver.

GOOD SUGGESTIONS.

ELKO, March 4, 1888.
TO THE STATE BUREAU OF IMMIGRATION—Gentlemen: In my travels throughout the State, particularly along the line of railroads, I find that tourists, land investors, speculators and the general traveling public, seldom take a circular from the "hook" in the hotel or restaurant by the wayside. As I am just as eager as yourselves to see Nevada lands taken up and located by a thrifty population you will pardon me for suggesting that the circulars you are now distributing concerning purchasable lands in Nevada be more generously distributed on the cars among travelers. The good results that would follow are self-apparent. I tested it in the past week and saw the effect. Hoping I have not trespassed on your functions, but eager for Nevada's future, I remain yours, respectfully, HUGH J. MOHAN.

"La Tosca" Condemned.

NEW YORK, March 6.—Sardou's La Tosca, which Fanny Davenport produced the other evening, meets with the general condemnation of critics and theater-goers for its repulsiveness. Speculation is rife whether Anthony Comstock will not speedily move about it. The prevailing sentiment is one of wonder that even Paris could tolerate it. It is the talk of the town, but the talk everywhere is the reverse of the complimentary. The World interviewed many leading citizens who attended the first performance, and their verdict is practically unanimous. Colonel Ingersoll was charitable enough to say he hoped it wouldn't do anybody any harm. One journalist proclaims it rank, rotten and reeking. It is expected that few ladies will go to see it hereafter. Lord Lonsdale and party occupied a box last night.
